

\(Return to "Christmas - 2004" album\)

\(Return to "Tanya's trip to Egypt - Gold shopping in Luxor" page\)

"To Brett from Tanya"

Tanya bought this present during her trip to Egypt, and here is a note from her diary

*"Some of the group went straight to the pool but not me - there's gold in them thar hills
- or down the road in the shop anyway!!*

The shop was great!!

The guy was helpful and it was nice not to have to haggle

- he just weighed the gold and that was it - price set!!

It was all 18ct gold and the silver was all sterling silver"

"After some assistance from Mike and Mark

- I needed the boys' opinion!! -

I got Brett "The Eye of Horus"

(three photos)

EYE OF HORUS

Horus was the falcon-headed solar and sky god from ancient Egypt. He is associated with vitality, health and regeneration. Horus was the son of Osiris and Isis. His right eye was white, and represented the sun, and his left eye was black, and represented the moon. According to Egyptian myth, Seth, Horus's brother, killed Osiris. Horus fought Seth to avenge this death and lost his left eye in the fight. Thoth, the God of magic and the moon, used his powers to reassemble Horus's eye. On presenting his eye to Osiris, Osiris experienced rebirth.

The Eye of Horus symbolises protection and the bringing of wisdom. The eye also symbolises our ability to see with clarity and truthfulness.

The Eye of Horus is a power protector.

